(By Staff Representative.)
MONONGAH, Dec. 10.—With 112 bodies on the surface at 10 o'clock today, 25 more ready to be brought out of mine No. 6 and 4 awaiting removal from mine No. 8, it was expected that the total number of bodies recovered from the wrecked mines by noon would be 140.

The work of rescue is being pushed along rapidly and by night it is expected most of the bodies will have been taken out.

The bodies taken out in most part are in bad condition, being maimed and blackened, besides many of them are far advanced in decomposition.

It has been raining here steadily since last evening and miserable conditions prevail throughout this section.

The relief work is well under way. Senator Joseph H. McDermott, of Morgantown, who came here as the personal representative of Governor Dawson, completed his investigation last night and left for his home where he will prepare his report to the governor.

At noon today the company announced that at least three or four more days would be required to get all the bodies out, unless the work of recovery becomes still more rapid. There is every reason to believe that the bodies will be taken out even faster as all the brattices have now been installed and the air currents amply furnish opportunity to get into all the side headings and rooms.

The wide scope of territory to be searched, however, will prolong the search even beyond the next three or four days and the same may even extend into next week for scattering bodies.

There is now no fire in either mine and the air is such as not to materially interfere in the work. The order at the mines is perfect and the rescue work goes systematically on, notwithstanding the steady downpour of rain and deep mud.

There is no change in the demeanor of the people of the stricken town except that the gloom of sadness and sorrow deepens all the time. Funeral after funeral was held today, mostly at the Catholic cemeteries, where scenes are most sad. After loved ones have been identified at the morgue and prepared for burial, hundreds of women and children gather at the cemeteries on the hill instead of going to the churches and await the arrival of the dead.

The rapid recovery of the bodies is making lively work at the morgue and at a late hour last night thirty-five more undertakers were telegraphed for besides the several who arrived early in the evening from Grafton and Fairmont. Spring wagons bringing the bodies from the traction station across the river, to which they are conveyed from the mine openings by an ambulance street car, are followed by throngs of men, women and children, who gather around the morgue and remain in the rain until the bodies are placed in the caskets and laid in state in the bank building for viewing and identification.

The moment it is announced in town that bodies have been brought from the mines, there is a renewed stir of expectancy and anxiety until the bodies have been viewed in the bank building. Relatives and friends press forward to get the first glimpse of the features of the dead, eye them closely and turn away in deeper sadness and depression, if they recognize them not. Recognition is followed by outbursts of grief and distraction, which with some, depends upon the very brink of insanity.

Of the original list given out by the company of men being in the mine the following have been lately located safe, and not having gone to work last Friday:

DAN DOMICO, JR.
LEONARD DOMICO.
LORETTA ALEXANDER.
ANDY BATON.
ANDREW BURROUGH.
MARIE BOGREOLLS.
COLEMAN BOLANERO.
PATSY CARVALANT.
SALVA FERARRA.
ANDREW SHAW.

These miners found to have not been at work has lowered the probable list of casualties to 371 and with a total of 113 rescued but 258 men are supposed to yet be entombed.

BENEFIT PLAY BY DE VONDE COMPANY

Proceeds of Wednesday Performance to Go to Telegram's Relief Fund.

To assist the Telegram's relief fund for the Monongah mine disaster sufferers, the Chester DeVonde theatrical company which is filling an engagement at the opera house this week, will devote the proceeds of the performance Wednesday evening to the fund.

Every one who goes into the opera house that evening will pay for their admission including even the members of the company and the employees of the house. The benefit tickets will be sold for 50 cents each. They are being distributed by the Telegram and may be procured at various places in the city, or by calling at the Telegram office. These tickets are to be exchanged at the opera house box office for reserved seats.

The play to be given by the Chester DeVonde company is one of the most interesting and elaborate of the company's repertoire. It is entitled "Rhaamaalaa," and tells of a young man having his skin turned into a black color by a scientific process and then reconverted to white. The main action of the play, which is in seven acts and has extensive stage settings, is in Madagascar and the situations presented are extremely interesting.

All who want to help the mine sufferers and also to see a genuinely good theatrical production should attend the opera house Wednesday evening and witness "Rhaamaalaa."

TO DIG GRAVES

Force of Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Trackmen Are Sent to Monongah.

Carrying out orders from officials of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad, a force of between forty and fifty trackmen that have been working on the railroad between this city and Parkersburg, left Clarksburg Tuesday morning on the interurban trolley line for Monongah to assist in digging graves for the dead that are taken from Monongah mines Nos. 6 and 8. The men took picks, shovels and other tools with them and as soon as they arrived at Monongah they proceeded to the cemeteries and began work digging graves. The men were called to this city from various points along the railroad between Parkersburg and this city where they had been working.

TEACHER MISSING

May Be in Oklahoma By This Time, But None Know Yet.

Romeo Boggs, of Spencer, teacher of the school at Nolan's Run, near Lumberport, suddenly left this section of country, and his actions in this are unaccounted for as yet.

Boggs has been missing over a week in this section, but there is a belief that he is now in Oklahoma. He went from his school a week ago last Friday evening to Lumberport, where he remained all night with friends, and Saturday morning he was up and away before breakfast. He did not tell any of his friends there that he was going away, and his sudden disappearance caused them much apprehension until a few days later one of them received a letter postmarked St. Louis, Mo., which proved to be from Boggs. It requested that his resignation as teacher of the Nolan's Run school be handed in. Nothing more was heard from him directly, although inquiry resulted in the information that he was on the way to Oklahoma.

So far as is known he was in no trouble at the school, and, hence, none can assign any reason for his sudden departure.

FUNERAL WEDNESDAY

Of Mrs. Ellen Radford, Widow of A. Radford, Who Died Monday Afternoon.

The funeral of Mrs. Ellen Radford widow of the late Albert Radford, will take place at her late home on East Pike street between Oak street and Park avenue, Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock. The burial will be in the I. O. O. F. cemetery.

Mrs. Radford died at her home Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock after a lingering illness. She was 52 years of age. Surviving her are three children, Albert, Maud and Fred Radford. Since Mr. Radford's death three years ago Mrs. Radford has been in poor health and for a long time she had been gradually growing worse.

Mr. Radford was the founder of the A. Radford Pottery Company, which has a fine pottery plant in East Clarksburg, and he was its general manager up to the time of his death. He came to Clarksburg from Zanesville, Ohio, where he was interested in the same business.

MANY CARCASSES

Are in Mines But Do Not Interfere With Work of Recovery.

MONONGAH, Dec. 10.—There has been considerable apprehension that the work of rescue might be stopped on account of the many carcasses of horses and mules in mines Nos. 6 and 8, but so far there has been little trouble from this source, and the stretch has not been sufficient to overcome the workers.

The official reports show that there were eleven horses and mules in No. 6 mine and 33 in mine No. 8. All were killed.

The Lumberport Gas Company has begun the drilling of its third well. It is on the F. D. Heldreth farm near Lumberport.

Cutters and Flatteners Refuse to Work Under the New Scale.

FORCE FACTORIES TO CLOSE

Adamston Quits at Midnight As Will Likely All the Others Located Here.

The local window glass factories at this time, when there promised to be a complete adjustment of the wage trouble that has been pending the last several weeks, and a full resumption of operations, are about to be forced to close down.

The cutters and flatteners are bringing this new condition about, because of their refusal to abide by the action of the wage committee of the Amalgamated Window Glass Workers of America at its meeting at Cleveland last week, in adopting a sliding scale. It is announced that the Clarksburg Window Glass Company will close its Adamston factory down tonight at midnight, as the result of the strike already begun by the cutters and flatteners.

Today there are but four of the eight cutters at work at the Adamston plant and none of the eleven flatteners, and this condition will force the closing down of the plant tonight.

The cutters and flatteners there are members of the Amalgamated Window Glass Workers of America, but also belong to an association of flatteners and cutters, and the latter association, whose members are throughout the glass manufacturing districts, have not only refused to abide by the action of the Amalgamated Association but also have a suit in court for a dissolution from the other two trades in the Amalgamated.

Some Out On Strike.
At the Peerless plant at Northview the fourteen flatteners and cutters went out on a strike this morning. The blowers are still at work but will be compelled to quit, if the strike proceeds and the Amalgamated Association does not furnish men to take the places of the striking flatteners and cutters.

At the Tuna plant the cutters are all working, but it is on the glass made last week. The ovens are being heated there, but the management does not know whether the flatteners will work or not. This will be known tonight as the ovens will be ready for the cutters and flatteners.

The Tuna has seventeen cutters and twelve flatteners. The Amalgamated Association will be asked to fill the places of all of these who go out on a strike.

The blowers are at work today at the West Fork factory. The flatteners have refused to work, but the cutters, as at the Tuna, are working on last week's glass. The West Fork will doubtless shut down tonight unless the Amalgamated Association supplies men for the places of the strikers. The management sent a request to Cleveland this morning for three flatteners.

The strike will throw a large number of men out of employment, cause much expense and inconvenience to the manufacturers, and have a bad effect on trade conditions in the city.

One familiar with the strike explains the situation as follows:

"The Amalgamated Window Glass Workers of America, made a sliding scale with the West Virginia manufacturers, which it considered all plants in the country could and would work under and the same was signed by the West Virginia manufacturers. The basis of this scale is 90—17½ off of manufacturers' selling price of 1901.

"But it seems two of the trades in the association, the cutters and flatteners, do not like the scale, and at the Peerless plant the flatteners have refused to work, also at the West Fork and the cutters and flatteners at the Tuna have notified the company that they will be done as soon as the glass under the scale that expired last Friday night is cut and flattened.

"However, it is hoped it will be made satisfactory to all four trades as soon as the case in the Cleveland court, which is being argued in court there today, is concluded.

"This case is for a dissolution of the four trades as the cutters and flatteners seem to think they can do better, if they are a separate organization."

Others identified with glass manufacturing.
